4.01 Directory Menu

The Directory Menu helps you to select the default script directory. You can specify up to five script directories and GuiXT will search each of these in order. The directories specified in the guixt.sjs file will be in active mode. The rest of the directories would be grayed out as in the following example. The Directories menu is shown as follows:

You must specify the directories in the guixt.sjs file.

Note: The directory menu will popup only if the running script is not available in the directory. The users can save the script file by selecting the directory.
